

English Australia Editor in Chief: John Smith

John Smith is the Assistant Director of Studies, University Programs at Griffith English Language Institute (GELI), Griffith University and a Senior Fellow of the Higher Education Academy (SFHEA). He has worked in tertiary education for over 20 years as a teacher, teacher trainer, materials developer, lecturer and administrator. In his current role at GELI, he is part of the management team for the Griffith English Language Enhancement Strategy (GELES), a concurrent academic language and learning support initiative and recipient of the prestigious Australia Government Office for Learning and Teaching 2014 Award for Programs the Enhance Learning. John holds master's degrees in both literature and TESOL and is currently undertaking a doctorate at Griffith University with a research focus on technology-enhanced learning and teaching.

